Photo Competition Flowers

Complete instructions on the web site for submitting Digital Images for the competition.

<http://www.creativecameraclub.org/cropping/cropping.html>

The print category for competition is limited to Black and White entries only.

A flower, sometimes known as a bloom or blossom, is the reproductive structure found in flowering plants (plants of the division Magnoliophyta, also called angiosperms).

In addition to serving as the reproductive organs of flowering plants, flowers have long been admired and used by humans, mainly to beautify their environment but also as a source of food.

First Thursday—September 2: Getting Ready for the Annual Print Show
Tom Myers will lead a discussion about our annual event: Included will be pointers about how to submit entries, what to expect at the Club meeting and the Gallery Hop Public Opening and reception.

Who's to judge?

How does one tell if an image is "Good"?

This month, as part of our regular club meeting, and before we have start the competition, Tom Myers will lead us in a discussion of what makes a good image. Take a minute and read the article on our Facebook page 12 Elements of a Merit Image, or check out the source on the PPA website www.ppa.com/competitions/international/12elements.php

Consider these points:

Impact, Creativity ,Technical excellence, Composition, Lighting, Style, Print Presentation, Center of Interest, Subject Matter, Color Balance, Technique, Story Telling.

Dr. Thomas Barnes will be critiquing our competition entries this month. Tom has written and taken photographs for several books including "Rare Wildflowers of Kentucky," "Kentucky's Last Great Places," "The Wildflowers of and Ferns of Kentucky," and "Gardening for the Birds." His photographs are used in magazines, calendars, books, and on websites throughout the world. More than 700 of his images appear on the plants.usda.gov and University of Tennessee web pages

Thanks, Tom, for giving your time and sharing your expertise on Flowers and photography.
