THINGS TO SEE, DO, AND SHOOT

Pages of History: 80 Years of the Taft

316 Pike Street, Cincinnati, OH 45202
 August 10, 2012–January 6, 2013
www.taftmuseum.org/

The Taft Museum of Art opened to the public on November 29, 1932, as a gift to Cincinnatians from founders Anna and Charles Taft. Celebrate the Taft's 80th anniversary with this display of archival documents, letters, news clippings, and historical photographs focusing on important events in the history of the Taft and the historic home's other former residents.

Star Power: Edward Steichen's Glamour Photography

October 12, 2012–January 27, 2013

Edward Steichen was already a famous painter and photographer on both sides of the Atlantic, when he was offered the position of chief photographer for Condé Nast's influential and highly-regarded magazines, Vogue and Vanity Fair. For the next fifteen years, Steichen would take full advantage of the resources and prestige conferred by the Condé Nast empire to produce an oeuvre of unequalled brilliance, putting his exceptional talents and prodigious energies to work dramatizing and glamorizing contemporary culture and its achievers—Crawford, Marlene Dietrich, Katherine Hepburn, Paul Robeson, Gloria Swanson, and Walter Winchell.

Included are Steichen's iconic portraits of famous actors, actresses, painters, producers, athletes, playwrights, poets, dancers, journalists, singers and writers, in addition to numerous fashion photographs. Steichen's crisp, bold, modern style revolutionized fashion photography during the 1920s and 1930s, and greatly influenced his successors in the field, including Richard Avedon, Irving Penn, and Bruce Weber.

National Geographic: Greatest Photographs of the American West

Oct. 27, 2012 - Feb. 10, 2013

National Geographic: Greatest Photographs of the American West features the best images of the West published by National Geographic over its 125-year history with works by nearly 80 different photographers, including Ansel Adams, Edward S. Curtis, Annie Griffiths and others. The exhibit also reveals surprises from the National Geographic Image Collection. Many images will be instantly recognizable for their subjects; others less so. Arrayed together, the photographs tell a story about imagination, spectacle, adventure and surpassing beauty, and offer startling views into the daily struggles of people and animals in a vast and often intimidating territory.

First Thursday, January 3, 2013

Make a note on your 2013 Calendar to bring your gear to the our regular church location on January 3 for the Annual Equipment Petting Zoo. We encourage everyone who got new camera equipment for holiday gifts to bring it in for a little “show and tell”. If you are still trying to figure out from last year what all the bells, whistles and wires are and what they do, chances are there is someone in attendance who can help you unravel the mystery. A number of us will bring our own gear for a bit of hands on exploration. We will also take suggestions for outings, events and programs for 2013.
