Guy Mendes, Steve Shaffer & Alex Slitz to Judge Print Show

Guy Mendes was born in New Orleans in 1948, Guy migrated to the Bluegrass to attend UK in 1966 where he studied under the writer Wendell Berry who introduced him to Ralph Eugene Meatyard, who in turn introduced him to photography the likes of which he had never before encountered. It set him on a lifelong search for a different way of seeing through the camera, looking long and hard at the world at hand, and he hired on at KET, Kentucky’s statewide PBS network, working first as a graphic artist, then as a writer, producer & director for 35 years (1973-2008). He now teaches film photography in the University of Kentucky’s School of Art and Visual Studies.

Steve Shaffer began with image/promotional pieces and expanded to series segments for shows like Kentucky Life and Kentucky Collectibles. That work culminated in 2 Emmy nominations for 2015. In 2016, He produced, shot, directed and edited an episode of Kentucky Collectibles featuring country music star Vince Gill. He is now a staff photographer at KET.

Alex Slitz is a staff photojournalist at the Lexington Herald-Leader in Lexington, Ky. Alex was named the 2012 Kentucky News Photographers Association’s Photographer of the Year and Sports Photographer of the Year. Alex’s work has appeared in numerous international, national and regional publications including The New York Times, The Washington Post, USA Today, The Guardian, Nationalgeographic.com, Vanityfair.com, Time.com and The Cleveland Plain Dealer.
